MRS. MAYBRICK QUIETLY
LIVING DOWN THE PAST.

The Woman Has Been Released from the English Prison as the Result of Celebrated Case—Has Taken
Name of Chandler.

New York, April 11.—Mrs. Florence Maybrick, who returned to the United States after her release from an English prison on a ticket-of-leave, is endeavoring to change her name to escape opprobrium. She believes that under another name she can build her life anew and bury the past from sight, if not from memory.

By the advice of friends, Mrs. Maybrick has assumed the name of Chandler—her maiden name—and is so known at her present residence in New York city. Every effort has been made to keep her whereabouts a secret. Her arrival was unheralded, and none but a group of women connected with the former Maybrick association which so long worked for her pardon, are aware that the quiet woman they call Mrs. Chandler is the heroine of the Maybrick case.

WIDOW ACCUSED OF MURDER.

Arrested With Son for Shooting Husband in New Haven.

New Haven, Conn., April 11.—As a result of the investigation by Coroner Mix into the death of Joseph E. Jennings, the widow, and her son, Hubert Taylor, were arrested yesterday by East Haven police on the charge of murder. The coroner's findings were handed down yesterday and held both Mrs. Jennings and her son responsible.

Jennings, his wife and Taylor left Sunday to visit a married daughter, Mrs. Charles Brooks, in Paxton, three miles away, and Mrs. Jennings and her son returned to their home early in the afternoon. Jennings started to walk to his home about 8 o'clock at night, and was shot in the woods on the way. His body was later found by Mrs. Jennings and her son. The motive for the murder of Jennings is not known.

WOMAN IN TRIPLE TRAGEDY.

Doctor Kills Dentist, Fatally Wounds Own Wife, and Slays Himself.

Birmingham, Ala., April 11.—Dr. A. W. Burton, a well known physician of this city, shot and killed his wife Monday night, fatally wounded Dr. T. T. Thaxton, a dentist of Pratt City, Ala., and then cut his own throat, dying a few minutes later.

Dr. Burton and his wife, Dr. Laura E. Burton, who has also been a practicing physician here, had not been living together for some time. Monday night he went to his home at North Haven or North Highlands, and found his wife and Dr. Thaxton together. The tragedy followed.

Mrs. Thaxton, the wife of the dentist, was an eye-witness to the shooting, as was Mrs. Andrews and her daughter, with whom the Burtons lived. Mrs. Thaxton says she and her husband had gone to call on Mrs. Andrews, who was not feeling well, and who is a cousin of Dr. Thaxton.

Bailey Is Ill.

New York, April 11.—James A. Bailey, the "circus king," is seriously ill with neuritis of the heart at his home, "The Knolls," in Corcoran Manor, on the outskirts of Mount Vernon. Mr. Bailey is more than seventy years of age.

SKIN TORTURES

Thousands of wretched people are miserable—driven almost mad by the terrible itching and burning sensation of Eczema and other skin diseases; many imagine they are suffering from bad blood, when as a matter of fact the blood has nothing to do with it. These awful tortures are caused by little germs that attack the skin externally, which can be rooted out in a hurry, leaving the skin clear, soft and healthy. Such misery need never be again as surely as the sun shines above. Not merely attempted, not a matter of improvement merely, not a temporary relief—but a clearing of it all away absolutely and permanently.

THE D. D. D. PRESCRIPTION

A specific formula, put up in sealed bottles with authentic label, has proven to be the only certain cure for these diseases. A record of cures is astonishing, amazing, almost miraculous. It is a liquid, used externally, non-greasy.

Cleaned within one month.

For a number of years my husband has been suffering with a terrible case of eczema. He had doctor after doctor, but nothing helped. I was told by a friend of the D. D. D. prescription and began using it at once. The first few applications cured the itching, and to a month's time his skin was as clear as could be.

Yours truly,
MRS. S. J. BEATH, 61 Pine St.

Retired, Va., Oct. 17, 1903.

WE PROVE IT

BAILEY ON RATE BILL

Urges Withdrawal of Power
Of Suspension

IN INFERIOR COURTS

The Senate Gallery Was Filled for His Rate Bill Effort—Deals With the Power of the Courts.

Washington, April 11.—The Senate galleries were crowded yesterday when Mr. Bailey began his speech in support of his amendment to the railroad rate bill. The Texas senator immediately turned upon the discussion of his proposition looking to the withdrawal of the power of the inferior courts to suspend the orders of the interstate commerce commission.

"If," he said, "Congress can destroy proceedings in equity it can destroy proceedings at law."

This continued, had been conceded by his opponents, as had also been the point that the inferior courts derived their power from acts of Congress and not from the constitution direct. These concessions left, as the only point, the distinction between the judicial power of the United States and the jurisdiction of the federal courts—for which Mr. Knox and Mr. Spooner contend.

As for himself he considered this a fine point—so fine, indeed, that he felt it would go far to justify Mr. Tillman's characterization of the refinements of Mr. Bailey.

"It is difficult," he said, "to believe that intellects like those of the senators from Wisconsin and Pennsylvania can contend for such an absurdity as they do contend for in holding that when Congress confers any power on a court it confers all power on them."

Mr. Bailey undertook to show that Congress has exercised the power to abridge the right of the courts to punish for contempt or to issue writs of mandamus, asserting that the courts have no inherent power, and that "it is the duty of the federal courts not to make the laws for Congress, but to obey the law that Congress makes for them."

"If," he added, "Congress has the right to restrict the power to punish for contempt, in God's name has it not the right to limit the power of injunction?"

which has been so greatly abused by so many federal judges?"

REPUBLICANS SENSITIVE

OVER FOREIGN PRICES

Grosvener Denies That the Steel Trust
Men Will Be Catechised as to Their Cheap Sales Abroad.

Washington, D. C., April 11.—The report that prominent steel trust officials were to be summoned before the House committee on merchant marine and fisheries to tell why American steel is sold abroad cheaper than at home is denied by Gen. Grosvener, the chairman of the committee.

Mr. Grosvener seemed much annoyed over the report. The fact is that the Republican leaders in the House are sensitive on the subject of goods sold abroad cheaper than at home. Mr. Rainey's exposure of the subject as related to watches had a paralyzing effect, but when it was followed by Mr. Perkins, a Republican, and applied to the subject of lead, the matter became worse.

KNOX PLAN IN FAVOR.

His Changes in Long Amendment to Rate Bill May Prevail.

Washington, April 11.—Adoption of the Long amendment to the rate bill, as modified in accordance with suggestions from Senator Knox, is looked upon as the most promising solution of the rate question in the Senate. Talk of agreements is declared on authority to be premature.

Senator Long's amendment would have the commission's orders reviewable by the courts to determine if the commission exceeded its authority or violated rights secured to the carrier by the constitution. This Knox would expand so as to cover also rights secured by the laws of the United States. He would also enable the shipper or any party aggrieved by the order to bring suit. Attorney General Moody has advised the president and the others that the changes suggested by Senator Knox would not weaken the amendment.

ANARCHISTS FLOCKING HERE.

Coming From Italy in Great Numbers—
Arrests Are Planned.

Washington, April 11.—According to official information received in this city Italian anarchists are arriving in the United States in great numbers at both Pacific and Atlantic seaports. The diplomatic representatives of the Italian government have positive information to this effect, and have brought the matter to the attention of the United States.

Through these representatives at San Francisco and Baltimore the immigration officials have been advised of the recent landing of a number of anarchists from Italy. The city of Baltimore, it is stated, is rapidly becoming an anarchist centre. The Italian consuls are engaged in assisting the immigration officials with a view to locating these men, and it was said yesterday that very shortly there will be placed in the hands of the immigration authorities sufficient data upon which to make a number of arrests.

Even the hurricanes of life split the trees to kindling wood, and leave us left of trouble.—Atlanta Constitution.

Bad Blood

Catarra is distinctly a bad-blood disease. The external signs are unmistakably shown by eruptions, pimples, dry scaly skin, rash and eczema. This condition might naturally be expected, since, in fact, Catarra is an internal scrofula, destroying the tissues just as surely as does scrofula on the skin. People do not see what is going on inside and they are inclined to let it go from bad to worse, until there is a breaking-down of the entire system, with loss of appetite, general weakness and debility, no ambition to go about as before, and presently consumption takes hold. The time to remedy the trouble is when it is Catarra, and the remedy to use should be a special prescription for Catarra. That remedy is Rexall Mucu-Tone.

We sell more bottles and hear more good reports about Mucu-Tone than we do of all the other Catarra remedies in our store, but the reason is not hard to understand. Mucu-Tone is designed specially to cure Catarra, being prepared from the prescription of a physician whose specialty was Catarra for thirty years. Now do you wonder that Mucu-Tone cures Catarra? We don't. That it has cured ninety-eight per cent. of the people to whom we sold it is no surprise, because it works in a sensible, scientific way, destroying the deadly parasites that float through the blood in the system, and which spread the trouble. Then, as its very name implies, it tones the mucous tissues—the tissues that are being ravaged by the catarrhal parasites—and there is new life and tone in every drop of blood and every cell in your body. It adds weight to run-down people.

We have a large trial size of Mucu-Tone at fifty cents per bottle, and we guarantee it to give satisfaction or refund the money you pay us.

ANOTHER McCURDY SUIT.

The Mutual Now Seeks to Recover $1,002,841.

New York, April 11.—Charges of conspiracy in the appointment of Robert H. McCurdy as superintendent of the foreign department of the Mutual Life Insurance company were made in a new action brought by that company against Richard A. McCurdy, formerly president of the company, and his son, Robert. The complaint alleges that the McCurdys conspired to enrich Robert H. McCurdy by maintaining his compensation on a commission basis at an exorbitant rate. In the suit the Mutual seeks to recover from the defendants $1,002,841.

It is alleged in the complaint that Robert H. McCurdy's profits derived from his interests in the firm of C. H. Raymond & Co., a metropolitan agent for the Mutual Life, amounted to $530,000 in the ten years prior to 1903. After he was made superintendent of the foreign department of the Mutual Life in 1888, it is asserted that he continued his connection with Raymond & Co., that it was his duty to devote his entire time and energy to his new office. According to the complaint, Robert H. McCurdy received in commissions between 1886 and 1905 the sum of $1,282,841. A just compensation for his services while superintendent of the foreign department, declared in the complaint to be $10,000 a year prior to 1895, and $20,000 a year thereafter until he resigned.

It is possible that the five indictments for forgery and grand larceny found against Frederick A. Burnham, president, George Burnham, Jr., first vice president and counsel, and George D. Eldridge, second vice president of the Mutual Reserve Life Insurance company, may be dismissed. Judge O'Sullivan decided that the indicted men may inspect the minutes of the grand jury, and on Thursday ex-Assistant District Attorney Rand will move the dismissal of the indictments on the ground that the grand jury heard illegal evidence. The foreman of the grand jury and Recorder Goff held a conference Monday for the first time since the recorder's charge a week ago, when he instructed the grand jury to take up the insurance investigation abandoned by the March grand jury. It is now supposed that the grand jury has finished considering the usual run of cases, and may be ready to follow the instructions of the recorder in regard to the insurance matters.

A REASON

The Rexall Remedies are successful and this is why.

They were placed on the market three years ago. They have scored already the record of the greatest success ever known in the history of the drug business.

"Come and go" popularity may arise from any number of causes (hulabaloo advertising among them) and may or may not be founded on real worthiness. But the man, the plan, the idea, or the article that truly succeeds, does so because he or it deserves to succeed, and for no other reason.

The success of the Rexall Remedies is therefore the first evidence of their real merit. They sell because they cure, and they cure because each one of them is the best remedy known to medical science for the particular ailment it is made to relieve.

There are nearly 200 remedies sold under the Rexall name, each for one disease or one purpose.

COOPER ON THE STAND

Husband Of Woman Charged
With Murder Testifies

TREATED NORTHEY AS BOY

Used Her Influence for His Betterment,
He Declares—Tells of Innocent
Games, in Which All Joined.

Augusta, Me., April 11.—On the witness stand in defence of his wife, Mrs. Alice F. Cooper, who is charged with the murder of Charley Northey at their home last October, Edwin J. Cooper yesterday justified her relations with the boy, who had made his home in the family while he was learning the trade of blacksmith.

Cooper said that young Northey played with the children and with his wife, accompanied them on social occasions and that both he and his wife had talked religion with him. One night, Cooper said, Mrs. Cooper and Charley repeated the Lord's Prayer together and he could hear the boy crying from another room where he sat.

The husband told of the incidents that were testified about as reflecting upon his wife—swinging in the hammock being together at social gatherings and sitting at church—as though they were matters of no particular moment and in which he could not see any harm.

Mrs. Cooper listened intently to every word of her husband. At times she caught herself nodding and smiling encouragement to the stalwart man. That she knew she had nothing to fear from what he would say the accused woman showed by her manner.

"This is the husband's story: 'I am thirty-eight years old and have lived in South Windsor almost sixteen years. I was married in Hallowell in 1890. My wife was eighteen years old. We have three children, Lore, fourteen years old, Velma, eleven years, and Ralph, nine years.'

"I am a blacksmith by trade. I had known Charley Northey fifteen years. He came to work for me the last of November, 1903, to learn the trade. At first he boarded with Miss Bryant and then came to my house. I was there the rest of the fifteen months he was with me. He usually went home Saturday nights. He slept with my boy Lore up stairs.

"After he learned the trade he went home and built a shop of his own. From that time on I sent him work and sometimes hired him to come to work for me.

"My wife used to carry the work to him and go after it."

"He worked steadily. He and the children played together. They had some children's game with cards they played, and they played tag together. He always seemed fond of the children and wanted to play with them."

"He and my wife used to play crokinole. The board belonged to Henry Cooper's children, but was at the house. I tried to play the game, but I couldn't play well enough, and I gave it up. Charles and my wife played it together. They went to play almost every evening for a month or six weeks."

"Charles and my wife used to play musical instruments. Charles had a violin, and my wife played the piano. They couldn't make much headway at the time."

"They went skating together the winter of 1903. I used to go, and Henry Cooper and his wife and usually the children. My wife learned to skate that winter. Charles taught her."

"My wife went to no entertainments of any kind while he lived with us. They went to Chelsea once with the children when I didn't go."

"We used to play croquet in the spring and summer. The neighbors used to play, and Charles, too. We had a tournament. My wife was the head of one side."

"Which he was asked if he had ever seen his wife and Charley Northey in a hammock together, he answered 'Yes' in the tone of a man who was stating a fact of no consequence whatever."

"They used to sit in the hammock on our piazza," he said.

Mr. Cooper resumed the stand at the opening of the afternoon session. He was asked about a certain croquet party at his house two weeks before Northey died.

"I did not see him after that until the day he died," said Mr. Cooper. "He had been in the habit of coming once a week to prayer meeting in the vicinity."

Mr. Cooper said that he and his wife had talked with Northey about becoming a Christian.

"One night I left him and my wife talking on the subject. I went to another room. I heard them repeat the Lord's Prayer together that Charley had said to her."

Mr. Cooper was not allowed to testify what his wife told him.

"Did you know that Charley was at your house on the Saturday after the croquet party?"

"Well, she said so."

"Where were you that night?"

"At an Odd Fellows' meeting at Cooper's Mills. I got home about 11 o'clock."

"How about your wife's health the following week?"

"She did not sleep very well. She got up sometimes in the night and kept me awake a good deal. She saw Dr. Ridley that week and took some medicine."

"Were you at home on Saturday, October 7?"

"Yes, my wife went to Gardiner in my team. I harnessed the horse for her. She took some trunks to the steamer."

On Sunday, October 8, we went to the Christian Endeavor meeting in Henry Cooper's team. Mrs. Henry Cooper drove us over. I sat a few seats ahead of my wife and Mrs. Henry Cooper and her children, Ruby Doe and Del Andrews sat behind me and my wife sat behind them."

"I saw Northey at the back of the church. I did not see my wife beckon to him, but I saw him sitting with her later. I could not hear what they were

PROGRESS MADE IN 50 YEARS

Druggists Rickert & Wells Say One of the Most Noted Examples Is in Medicine.

"While electricity has supplanted the old-fashioned tallow candle for lighting purposes, almost turning night into day; while it has opened up our great country by a network of electric railways, while all kinds of machinery have been invented to do the work of hosts of people, we have just as noted an example in the field of medicine," said Mr. Wells of the above firm.

"Fifty years ago every one knew of the latent medicinal properties contained in cod liver oil; physicians everywhere prescribed it, but thousands could not take it on account of the oil and grease which enveloped the curative, strengthening properties it contained, and in many cases where they could take it it would upset the stomach so it could do no good."

"Now all this is changed," continued Mr. Wells. "Science has shown us a way to separate the curative medicinal elements which exist in the cod's liver from the oil or useless part and give us Vinol. It contains every one of these medicinal elements, actually taken from fresh cod's livers, but without a drop of oil or grease to nauseate and upset the stomach and retard its work. Vinol contains no sickening drugs, everything in it is printed on every bottle."

"We have never sold in our store a medicine equal to Vinol to give strength and renewed vitality to the aged, build up the run-down, tired and debilitated, make the weak strong, cure chronic coughs, colds and build up the convalescent."

"It is because we know so well the medicinal power of this new cod liver oil preparation that we freely offer to return the money in every case where it fails to give satisfaction." Rickert & Wells, Druggists.

MINE DISORDERS IN FRANCE.

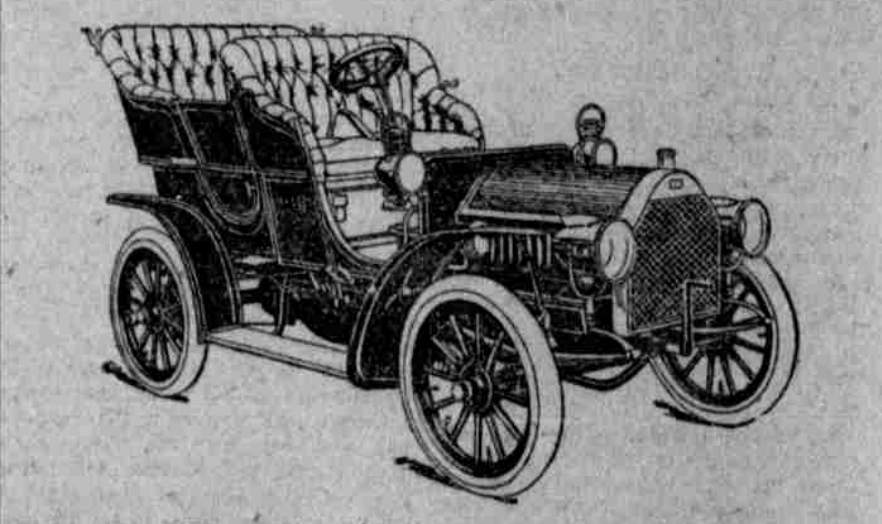

Women Join in Violent Demonstration of Strikers.

Lens, Department of Pas-de-Calais, France, April 11.—The miners' congress has decided to maintain the demand of the strikers for $1.38 per day. Many disorders occurred yesterday. A crowd of 15,000 persons made a demonstration before the building in which the congress held its sitting. The women were particularly violent.

The miners of the Department of Loire have decided to join in the strike also.
